WE MADE IT!

We finally did it...

ADMISSIONS

Mr. Pete Magann uses various tactics to recruit new students: billboards, radio announcements, and appearances at community activities. But he also visits high schools in seven counties to talk to upperclassmen about Coastal. He suggests courses to take for good background in college and courses at Coastal open to high school seniors. An invitation is extended to visit the campus and any mail from those interested is answered the same day.

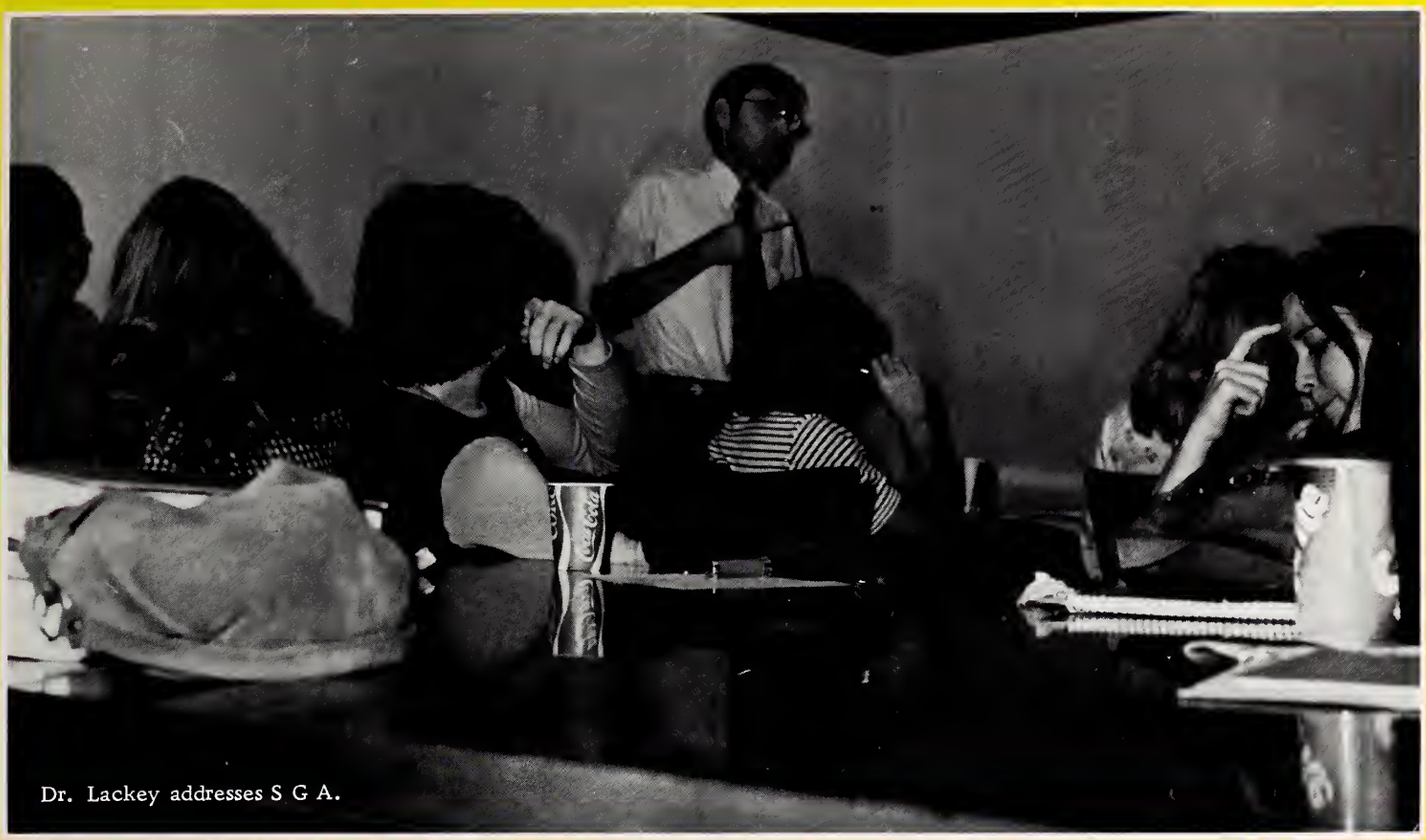
The meeting is called to order . . . Nancy Young, SGA Secretary will call roll . . . Now we have a treasurer's report from Debbie Peterson . . . Any discussion? No, Steve we can't have a beer bust with the extra money--Any old business? "Robbers Rules of Order," seconded by John Wilson, Pres. of Sophomore class . . . New Business? STUDENT LOUNGE . . . biggest discussion yet! Yes Buddy, we'll be sure to have footsball tables put in . . . OK, OK, everybody quiet down!! Now, about the trip to Atlanta, Pat and Linda are having a fit to go . . . Nomination, of course, Pat and Linda . . . Approved . . . Anymore discussion? Lisa: "Marcia, please pass me the ashtray." Well, if there is no more business the meeting is adjourned . . .



Dr. Lackey addresses S G A.

Student Government Association is the organization recognized by the College which consists of all students of the College representing the interests of these students. The SGA provides for the democratic government of the student body within its area of interest. It controls and maintains close understanding, cooperation, and communication between the student body and the College. This year, SGA continued its service to Coastal students by selling their used books. The profits from these sales went into the SGA Scholarship Fund for a scholarship to Eddie Benton, for the 74 - 75 year.

While You're Here

You Can Do Anything . . .

Ex ce pt

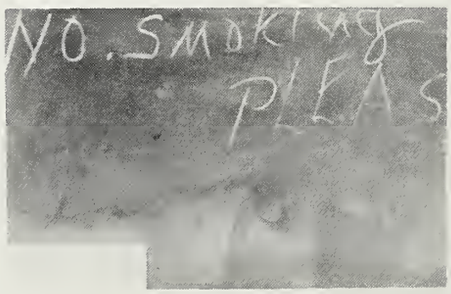
Parking has always been a problem and even visitors to the campus get frustrated in their efforts to find a parking space. So a place was created for visitors and woe be it to the student who parks there!

As for smoking in class: The main campus says "no", the SGA says "yes", and there's still heated discussion about the matter.



The Student Lounge is for all students but, if left in such a mess, it might be closed.

For Your Added Convenience

. . . or inconvenience! A new registration system can be a lot of headache for students with last names beginning with W or Y. By the time they get to the head of the line, all the classes they want are closed, except for the favored seniors.

The new classrooms are much better than the windowless ones in the Williams-Brice Building. And the additional space in the new offices is really appreciated now that Coastal is a four-year institution.

The Student Union and Administration Buildings got a face-lift this fall to keep up with the new building.

Xerox machines are a God-send for students and instructors. No more messy carbons or stencils.

An elevator is a great help to a student heavy laden with books and late for class or just tired of climbing stairs.

Student Teachers

These unique students pictured on this page get the privilege of going to school twice a day - as a student and as a teacher. Coastal now has a program for student teachers where they can do their practice teaching in Horry County closer to their homes. After attending school in regular classes on methods and directed teaching, these practice teachers go out and face the students as teachers on their own rights. Leading this double life does have the advantage of helping the practice teachers understand their own professors.

H o u s Open

October 20, 1974--Coastal Carolina opens its doors to the public. With a new Academic Building, exhibits, a performance of THE PAJAMA GAME, a musical program presented by the Coastal Choir, and even old time square dancing, USCCC has a reason to be proud. People from all over Horry County came to enjoy the afternoon.

The Pajama Game

COASTAL CAROLINA

THE PAJAMA GAME has to be considered a success! All four nights it played, the Lecture Hall was packed. The play itself was about intermingled lives of the employees of a Pajama factory. The plot centers around the growing love affair of Sid and Babe. Their affair is shattered when they take opposite sides in a labor union dispute and Sid is forced to fire Babe. But in the end they get back together again and everybody "lives happily ever after".

GAMMA RAYS won not only the Pulitzer Prize, but also the Obie Award, and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award as the Best American Play of the Season. It was one of off-Broadway's greatest successes in the past five years.

It proved something beautiful and full of promise can emerge from even the most barren, afflicted soil. This was the timeless lesson of the play, and the root of its moving power and truth.

WORK STUDY

"Leisure time? What's that? Time I get out of class, I have to rush to work - got to get that fifteen hours in or no pay for two weeks!" Coastal's work study students sometimes have a price to pay for their extra money. But it is worth it. Whether time is spent typing papers. filing admissions records, folding clothes in the P. E. Department, or working in the public schools, students really put forth an effort to do their best. Although sometimes it means missing out on extra activities, clubs, or away games, the undercover work of these students continues to go on.

UNVOLVEMENT

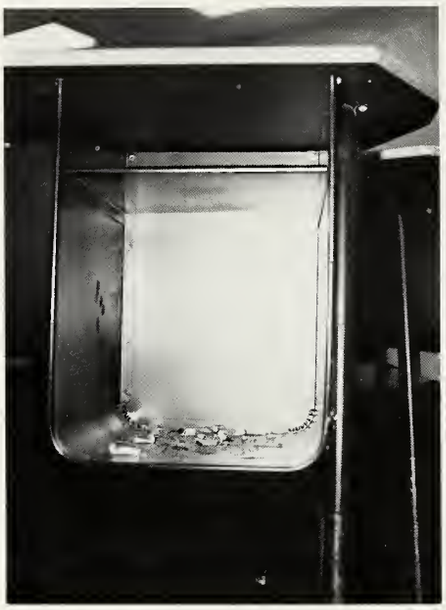
Unvolvement - what is it? Need you ask? Unattended class meetings, unattended committee meetings, SGA roll call covered with little x's, finding out in the middle of the year that Coastal does have a basketball team, baseball team, and almost any club you could want to join, dances held at least once a month that some people skip and realize later that the chance comes only once. Yes, Virginia, Coastal does have some students who care. The only problem is finding them.

"I'll be damned if I walk another mile to get to my car. Why should I? It's in a ditch anyway."



Coastal students are so innovative that they invent new ash trays

EXPLETIVE DELETED

If students really cared about some of the conditions around here, they should do something about it.

A drink machine on the blink - finally on the students' side!

Once upon a time, Coastal was visited by a strange little wee person. When he arrived, he tried to find a place to park his little saucer. But, lo and behold, the only place left was on top of the Williams Brice Building in Slot 34C. After squeezing in the lot, he decided to visit the lovely building called the library. Maybe he could find some books on this planet to read on the habits of the earth people. But the library had no materials on earthmen. Well, the man was hungry so he went to Cino's Roost to eat. But again, space was a problem. There was no place left to put his food - even after paying all the money he had to his name. Looking around, he realized that the custom here on earth was to leave your food lying on the tables, in some sort of pop art form. But it had to be done in the right manner. He placed his french fries in his tea and then painstakingly brushed his cigarette ashes onto his plate. Finally, he placed his gum in his catsup and sprinkled pepper all over it. Satisfied that his mess was as good as any he had seen, he decided to take a little stroll. On the way out, he saw some girls kicking and yelling at a machine. All of a sudden, five drinks came rolling out. Ahh --- money evidently meant nothing to machines here on earth, only hand contact meant something. The little man was now tired and ready to go home and think over all he had seen. He left and has not been heard from since! Is it any wonder?

Married Students

Beth Nolan

Being a married student at Coastal seems to work out very well for most people. As stated by Dixie Maxwell "I was scared until I saw so many other "older" married students". Beth Nolan and her husband, Jim, use Coastal's library for studying. Jim teaches at Myrtle Beach High and takes graduate courses at night. Marshall Brogden, whose wife is a school teacher, is studying to become a school teacher also. Greg and Ruth Ellen Hardee plan on graduating together this Spring. Ruth Ellen has attended Coastal for four years while Greg transferred from Clemson his sophomore year.

A historic place in Horry County - Coastal's Library where a copy machine has had the same Out of Order sign on it for two years. Finally, they got a new one.

Even the bathrooms have had out of order signs on them - the water was to be off for three hours.

What is next? USCCC out of order?

It's Never Too Late

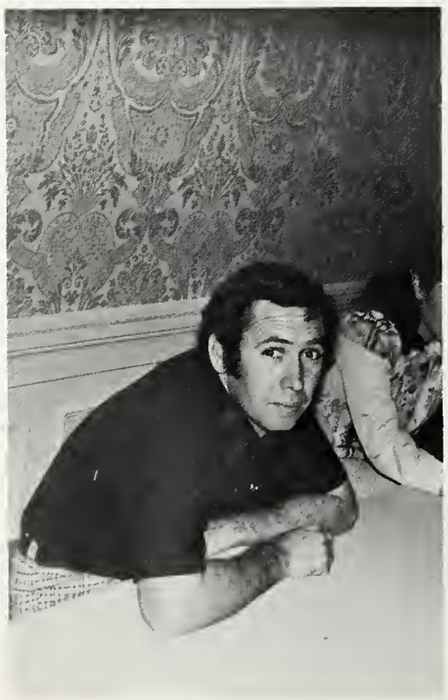
Coastal has a new policy this year where students over 65 years of age can enroll for free. This has increased attendance in some respects. However, there are still many older students, not yet 65, who attend Coastal and greatly add to the activities.

Franklin Holt, PICTURED ABOVE, is a senior majoring in Accounting. Although he is an assistant manager in a chain store, he finds time to attend classes. Frank "Pop" Alexander is a familiar face around campus. A theatre major, he can usually be found in the Little Theatre, where he tirelessly works day after day. Pop is also interested in ceramics and other forms of art.



Liston Barfield, LEFT, has been at Coastal for four years. A senior majoring in P.E., Liston helps with all kinds of sports - whether it be working by selling tickets, participating in the games as scorekeeper, or being a team member. Evelyn Snider, RIGHT, was an English and Bible teacher at Conway High before coming to Coastal. A very active person, she is now attending Coastal as a fellow student of many young people she taught in high school. She has participated as guest lecturer in several English and History classes.

We

Also

Have

USCCC has many activities that are not included with the regular academic load of classes and homework. This fall, Senator John Jenrette came and toured our campus and had a question and answer period. Governor Jim Edwards and several other political office holders also came for questioning periods. We also participated in the Convention Center's Open House - sending cheerleaders, clowns, beauty queens, and various exhibitions. Conway High School's Honor Society visited our campus. And, as usual, we did have classes to attend regularly. But, as evidenced above left, some ingenuity still exists in the classroom.

GOING MY WAY?

From the east and from the west, from the north and from the south, on bicycles, over bridges, in pick-up trucks, on motor bikes, in Rolls-Volks, by way of thumb, in car pools, in a van, in jeeps, over dirt roads, over by - passes, over turning bridges (Darn, there goes that Socastee bridge a-gain!), and in red VWs, in blue VWs, in white VWs, in Orange VWs, in yellow VWs . . . . .

Where the Living Is Easy

Around a dozen guys living in one of Coastal's "dorms", the Summer Sands, do have the easy life. Under the guidance of Coach "O", they exist in a different world. This is Coastal's answer to Carolina's Roost - a home away from home for our athletes. With Howard's bongos, a big friendly canine, and friends dropping by from Spartanburg and Sumter for weekend parties, there is always something to do. Although they had to learn to cook, budget money, study in a madhouse, and decorate in Early American Junk, these guys would not exchange their dorm life for even one home cooked meal.

$ MONEY $

Part-time jobs, full-time jobs, and spare-moment jobs -- any kind of work that helps pay the way through Coastal is accepted by USCCC students. On this page, clockwise, Susie Herrington stocking the shelves at a local drugstore, John Wilson pruning trees at a beach motel, Danny Stevens spending time as night-manager at a motel, Donna Smoak working at a doctor's office, and Bonita Hardee writing a receipt at a clothing store. On the opposite page, clockwise, Simon Spain selling photography equipment, Debbie Roberts clerking at a department store, Mike Cannon checking blood pressure, and Craig Smith operating his own shoe store.

$ MONEY! $

Remember when you were little and people used to ask you what you would be doing when you grew up? You always smiled and said either a fireman, a teacher, nurse, or an astronaut. Now, that time has approached - college-the future that is suddenly the present. And while you're still on your way to being a teacher or scientist or whatever, you find yourself as a clerk at a drugstore, a salesman in a department store, a handy man around a motel, or a secretary in an office. Reality has intervened and you realize that the old age of "making your own way" has finally reached you. Parents, doting aunts, and grandparents can no longer hand over money, protect and pamper you when you need that little bit of extra cash for dances, books, or gas, So what do you do? Anything and everything that keeps that money in your pockets and fuel in your car.

Signs - what would a Coastal student do without them? Since there is no public address system or any other means of communication, the signs are number one. The bulletin boards are loaded with news, lost and found, club meetings news, newspaper clippings, car pool info, departmental news, newspaper clippings, and the awe inspiring grade reports. Thanks to the Campus Union, there is some order among the disorder. At least the signs are dated and hung only in certain places.

Where the Students Come to Roost

A place to eat, drink, and be merry. Have a seat, play the jukebox, stand around in line, just walk to the door and look in to see who's there, order the regular of chicken breast, fries, and tea, or mingle with the lucky ones who are eating the special of the day. Thanks to Mr. Al Oliver, Jeannie Cook, Eunice Graham, and Karen Wimberly, Cino's Roost provides a place to relax between classes. (Happy Birthday, Eunice.)

AND THE BEAT GOES ON!!

The Beginning, Halloween, Miss Coastal Pageant, Christmas, Homecoming, Spring, The End - great occasions for great dances. Even though they were sometimes cut short and sometimes held at the wrong time, Coastal's dances were never unattended. Partying, drinking, dancing, talking, laughing, flirting, loving, foxing - what could be better?

Kaii...

With the ever growing attention on martial arts, Coastal has many students enrolling in Karate, including several girls attending the classes taught by Dennis Miller, a black belt in the style of Tang Soo Do Moo Duk Kwan. In addition to the course in beginning Karate, Miller's Karate Studio offers classes leading on up to the various belts. State tournaments have been held in which Coastal students participated and won several place titles.

Behind the Scene

The people behind the scenes who make the scenes, headed by George Rewis, are a group of the friendliest, nicest, and sweetest people at USCCC. Always working to keep Coastal clean and neat, they are not always appreciated. The Atheneum would like to publicly thank them for their hard work and smiling faces.

WHAT ELSE?

Oh, no! It's that time of the year again. EXAMS are here. No watching Johnny Carson or Monday Night Football. It's catch a bite in Cino's while studying, copy notes that were given in a class you cut, study in the library, and study by recording your notes and playing them back on the long trip to school, spend your time by making the world's smallest cheatsheet. Then, zero hour is here! All the class is quiet for a change as the papers are passed out. For one solid hour, all you hear is the scratching of heads and pens. Finally, it's over. But again, there is terrible waiting until grades are posted. Then, you come to school at odd hours hoping to catch a door unlocked so you can sneak in alone and see your intellect laid naked to the world in the guise of a small letter attached to a social security number. Ahh, here it is (NCs don't count against you anyway.) At last, rest for another year from the harrowing experience of exams.

A group of students, professors, and non-students who fill the roles of actors, actresses, stagehands, narrator, director, costume designer, set designer, lights crew, and make-up artist without any problem. Sewing on costumes until three in the morning, spending the night in the lecture hall to work on sets, rehearsals until odd hours at night, spending all free time working on the next production - all this is dedication to the art theatre. Coastal is proud to have such a talented group of hard-working people who enthrall audiences production after production with a repertoire of musicals, tragedies, comedies, and experimental plays.

Moving On !

Clark Parker

Moving on. That's the way it seemed at the beginning of the 1974 - 75 Basketball Season. Without the effort of our dear and devoted friend, "Park Clarker", we would never have made it. Clark washed, dried, and packed the uniforms, loaded the bus, gassed up the bus, drove the bus, broke down the bus, repaired the bus, and got us all home safe and sound. Thank God we had Clark.

He never lost his temper. Well, almost never. And he always hung in there. Sometimes his day started at 6:00 and he might get home by 2:00 in the morning, if we happened to have a game that particular night. What would we do without you, Clark? (By the way, the whites need washing.)

Meet the guy that represents YOU - Coastal Carolina students in being the most ardent fan of Chanticleer basketball. As a means of introduction, he is a business major, and at times, is the only voice in the crowd yelling "Give 'em hell Chants". We are speaking of Fred Haithcock, a senior who has seen his last game as a USCCC student. However, he has vowed continued support for the Chanticleers. Two other loyal spectators are Pat Singleton and Walt "Biscuit" Richardson, who attend every game - home or away.

1974 1975

For Coastal Carolina athletics, it has been a year of firsts, with new faces and new sports showing up on the scene.

An extensive recruiting by Coach John Vrooman brought a lot of new faces to the baseball team. Randy Owens, a pitcher, and Steve Pearson, a third baseman, joined the team from Spartanburg Junior College. From Virginia came Al "Jose" Anch, a sleek fielding shortstop, and Steve Foltz. Ed Euchler, Keith "Yankee" Holmok, and Joe Stethers left New York to join the squad along with Blake King and Ricky Avins from USC-Sumter. Additional new faces were becoming part of the team for the spring baseball season.

Girls' Volleyball entered its first season at Coastal in the fall. It was a rough and rocky initial year for the girls as they managed one victory, which came in their final game. Coastal hosted the girls' State Volleyball Tournament which won acclaim as an overwhelming success. Miss Violet Meade coaching volleyball and basketball marked her first year at Coastal after nine years of heading the Women's Program at USC.

For the first time, the basketball team played all four year competition. In the second game of the season, team captain Lonnie Chestnut's Chanticleers sent panic across the state when they upset Newberry, 96-94, in overtime. Newberry was pre-season pick to win the NAIA District - 6 Title. The team traveled all over the state in their bid for a top seat in NAIA.

Girls' basketball entered its second season under the new leadership of Miss Meade. Team captain Cathy Nance's forces were in great hopes of a bright future, although winning against established teams proved hard to do.

Golf and Tennis under the leadership of Dr. Sullivan and Dr. Dame, respectively, were on the upswing. Established veterans were painting a rosy picture as the teams tuned up for the spring run with only one big question-"Will it rain all Spring?"

Another first at Coastal in the form of a girl's team is the tennis team, making its debut under the able coaching of Violet Meade. An eight game schedule was planned for their first season.

Intramurals, with Howard White directing, got new life at Coastal Carolina. Coed volleyball started it off, followed by men's basketball which, as usual, was a big success.

Although the win column was lacking for this season, Coastal is growing and improving each year and the teams will soon come into their own and lead our school to victory.

Before the age of two a child learns to make his desires and feelings known through speech and is able to comprehend the people around him. This is a natural process which comes about because of a desire to understand others.

The process of learning a foreign language could be just as simple if we were taught to understand the importance of human relationships. This does not mean that we would study foreign languages so that we could talk to foreigners or teach a foreign language, or work as a translator or visit in a foreign country. Rather, we would want to understand the people, their language, customs, problems, desires, and beliefs. We would also better understand our roles in the world and our own society as well as our relationship to other people of the world.

Foreign Language-Pam Patino

The Division of Education would like to utilize this space to honor ALL of our graduating seniors in Early Childhood, Elementary, and Secondary Education. We believe that they are very special people because of their desire to enter a profession which demands that they give much of themselves in order to benefit others.

Whether they work with children and adolescents in South Carolina or elsewhere, we know that they will always do their utmost to provide to their students the quality of learning that will enrich both the present and future for all of us.

WHO'S WHO

The Who's Who award has acquired national value because it serves to motivate and inspire students to continue to seek new challenges and explore new paths of opportunity as they embark on their chosen careers. These Coastal students selected to serve on Who's Who have demonstrated wise leadership and an ability to accept awesome responsibility. National recognition by the Who's Who program marks a pinnacle of scholastic achievement.

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far I could
To where it had been in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same.

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I--
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

FISHING

For the second year in a row, the Coastal Carolina Fishing Club was the first team to accept an invitation to the Coastal Carolina Invitational, a tournament which combines intercollegiate sport fishing and a seminar on fishing. The late spring match brings Yale and the University of Western Ontario to Myrtle Beach for the competition.

Last fall, Coastal club officials Skip Opalko and Mignon White initiated intercollegiate sport fishing in the Carolinas by arranging a match with upstate rival Francis Marion. Mignon and Tim Schoen took individual honors.

"Home Sweet Home"

Student Affairs - where everyone is welcome. With caring people like Dr. Ron Lackey, Gayle Baker, Robert Livingston, and "Mother" Jean Casey, this small corner of offices has become one of the biggest gathering places for students. They really are interested in putting students first at USCCC. Playing basketball, helping with the VET's Christmas Party, sponsoring a drop-in, participating at all dances and school affairs, and just being there whenever you needed them is what OUR Student Affairs is all about.

ARTS And LETTERS

Communication is one of the building blocks of Art and Letters, one of Coastal's biggest divisions. The English Department helps the student express himself through literature, the spoken word, and study of the classics. The need for communication is very important as the world seems to grow smaller and smaller and all people are coming in closer contact with each other. The Foreign Language Department has adapted to meet this need. Through Religion and Philosophy, man begins to communicate with the all important beings - God and himself. The Theatre Department interests students in communicating to others through the medium of the stage. Learning to express one's self through art and music is also important in enabling a student to communicate with himself and with others in his world.

EDUCATION

Good things are happening in Education this year. Many new faculty and staff members have joined the Education Dept. and the Physical Education Dept.

Beginning with the Freshman year, students are gaining experience in the public schools. thereby receiving a more realistic picture of the teaching profession.

Through micro-teaching, the use of video-tape equipment, exposure to team-teaching and a variety of other experiences, the Division of Education is attempting to give students experiences which are both interesting and rewarding.

BUSINESS

Business Administration is one of Coastal's fastest growing divisions. There are many students majoring in Business Administration. In fact, there is one class that is composed entirely of seniors who will graduate this year.

For an entire week, several Business Administration majors journeyed to Atlanta, Georgia, where they viewed many big corporations at work. This furthers B. A. 's aim of developing a student's unique abilities, interests, and attitudes to the limits of his capacity in order that he may be of maximum service to a changing society which is shaping our American way of life.

SCIENCE & MATH DEPARTMENT

The Math and Science Division is continuously moving forward. The smiling Mickey Mouse face welcomes everyone to the Computer Room where there are always interested students working with the various machines, either creating new printout faces or working problems. The Marine Science Department has two new acquisitions -the Jack W. Nelson Marine Science Lab and a new boat. With the continuing use of the Baruch Laboratory, Coastal's Marine Science Dept. is quickly becoming the first in its field in the entire Southeast. The biology and chemistry labs are still in full swing. Students are still filling the labs to overflow as they try to learn the art of dissecting or the art of balancing equations.

SOCIAL & BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

The Social and Behavioral Science Division gives students an opportunity to investigate and analyze conflicts in their own world and worlds past, and to suggest to them the traditional values by which we as a society have attempted to resolve our past conflicts and dilemmas. The study of the human mind and an individual's reaction as a member of a social, economic, and political system seems to further this study. The Anthropology Division has had many such studies this year, the main one being the excavation at DeBordieu Colony of a prehistoric settlement, dating back to A.D. 500-1000.

NURSING

Practicums at the hospital, classes at school, putting on the surgical mask and gloves, learning bone structures, muscles, diseases, long medical terms, carrying heavy and expensive books around, keeping the journals on various patients (at 2:15 the patient was resting easy) and learning the correct dosage, studying, studying, and studying - it all leads to the satisfaction of wearing that cap and pin.

Ssshhh!!

Coastal Carolina's library - an ever growing institution. There are plans for a new library that will better house all of our references and students, and provide for all of the new materials ordered. Mr. Dove and his staff have rearranged the library, making it more suitable for research and studying.

Library Staff

1. Edna Bellamy, Library Clerk
2. Doris Hamilton, Library Clerk
3. Mary Morgan, Assistant Librarian
4. Lynn Todd, Library Clerk

Graduate Studies

Dr. Marshall Parker, Director of Continuing Education, and his able staff are now firmly ensconced in their bright and cheery new offices in the Education Building. The Graduate Programs conducted its own spring registration due to the growing numers enrolling in Continuing Education. There are approximately 345 students at the present time.

The 1974-75 Atheneum consists of time, work, dedication, and planning. This issue originated early in the summer of 1974 with workshops, meetings, and ad and subscription sales, with Mr. Charles L. Watson, a Conway attorney, buying the first edition. Many businessmen listened patiently to sales pitches and then eagerly bought space when they realized that this Atheneum would represent Coastal's four year status and its first senior class. Without this help from our local merchants, this issue would never have fulfilled its purpose.

Many new effects that were tried worked, while others did not. Even though the class beauty pictures were sent to Peter "Columbo" Falk, he never acknowledged them. Therefore, the girls were chosen by your popular vote. The senior section is in color, the sports section is in color, and the opening section of the book is different. I hope that you will think the Atheneum truly tells the story of the 74-75 year at Coastal Carolina. I realize that there are things that may have been omitted.

I would like to thank the people who were always there by me - Jim Beaty who finally found room for the staff, and Jean Casey - this book could never have been printed without her. She kept the staff going with her smile, ideas, money management, and reminders of deadlines. Nellie Smith sold nearly half of our ads, and if you could hear her sales pitch you would understand why. Karen Yarborough acted as the Business Manager until October, keeping the books straight. And I am sure all of you have seen Rick Wall sneaking around with his camera - the annual could not have existed without him and his dedication. And lastly, our representative Fred Bostrom with his fantastic ideas (when he could make it), and my Blue Jean King #13 who kept me going! Thanks to all of you.
